

Melissa graduated from University of Massachusetts Amherst in 2014 with a Bachelor's of Science degree, magna cum laude, in chemical engineering. As an undergraduate, Melissa worked in the Polymer Science and Engineering Department at UMass studying the synthesis and characterization of polymer membranes for anion exchange membrane fuel cells. She is pursuing research in process intensification, focusing on the advanced control of dividing wall columns using wireless control hardware.

Contact information:

Melissa Donahue
Process Systems & Technology Center
The University of Texas at Austin
10100 Burnet Road R7100
Building 133, Suite 1.310A
Austin, TX 78758
email: mdonahue at utexas dot edu
Fax: 512-471-1720; Phone: 512-471-1087

